The History of Etiquette.

Etiquette is a term of fashion more important than style in dress, for the reason that the varying codes of manners have influenced morals, something changing the cut of a coat cannot be said to have done. When etiquette demanded that a gentleman accept a challenge or acknowledge himself a coward in the minds of his fellow citizens, it ennobled sharply upon ethics. Now that it has gone out of fashion to kill, gentlemen find small difficulty in keeping the sixth commandment. The less formal etiquette becomes the less wanton taking of life there is among those who consider good breeding of consequence.

As the civilized man now stands either man or woman, he is regarded, regardless of shape of hat or the woman. This was true in any century, but 200 years ago and back of that period a gentleman and lady could, according to approved etiquette, gobble food with their hands from a common dish set in the center of the dining table and filled with the entire fashionable bill of fare prepared for the occasion. Graciously we now acknowledge such proceedings to be "bad form" and in so doing pronounce ourselves two centuries removed from the table manners of wine and one point away from that brute, no matter how similar to him our turn of mind may remain in some other respects.—National Magazine.

Salt Water Fish.

The number of species of fishes living habitually in the salt waters of the world can only be approximately estimated, probably about 10,000. Those classed as "shoal fishes" live, as a rule, close to the surface and near the land and are well known to the salt water angler in his outings as the weakfish, striped bass, kingfish, etc. Of the shoal fishes there are about 4,000 species. The "pelagic fishes," or those which inhabit the upper waters of the seas, are relatively few in number. The "deep sea fishes," which live in depths varying from 200 to 2,500 fathoms, cannot be even approximately estimated, as a new species are being constantly discovered.—Field and Stream.

Thru and Now.

In these days of cheap literature, but the masterpiece of English writing can be had for 6d. It is interesting to note that just 1,000 years ago the most of Anglo-Saxon were deep one of which, one had a type and one of which for a volume of sermons.—The Field and Stream.

Thru and Now.

Captain John Smith never during his lifetime succeeded in convincing the English that Virginia was not an island. In vain he wrote home, "Virginia is no isle, as many do imagine."

In 1800 the first patent ever issued to a woman was granted—for straw weaving.

SOME CURIOUS CHURCHES.

Congregations Which Meet in Inns, Windmills and Bells.

A public house is one of the last places one would expect to be used as a place of worship. The inhabitants of Tisbury, a village near Winchester, would not consider this at all a novelty, because for several years past the Phoenix Inn has been used Sunday for religious purposes. The room in which the religious services are held will comfortably hold about 200 people and opens at the back on to a pretty tea garden. The most remarkable feature of the services is that they are often continued while the public house is open for business purposes, and the customers can join in the singing, if they are so disposed.

There are two or three instances of public houses which have been converted into churches, and there are also two or three churches which are now places of worship. The Fen district possesses a cannibal church. There are a large number of people who live some distance away from any church, and the cannibal church travels from place to place for the benefit of such folk. The boat will seat a congregation of about 100.

The old chapel of ease at Tisbury Wells has a unique situation. It stands in two counties and three parishes. When the clergyman leaves the vestry, he comes out of the parish of Frim of Sussex. If he is going to officiate at the altar, he walks into the parish of Tisbury, in Kent. If, on the other hand, he is going to preach the sermon, he walks from the parish of Frim to the parish of Spelthorpe on his way to the pulpit.

The chapel at Milton Bryant is situated in the village pond. The reason for the selection of this strange site was because no landowner would grant any other position. The "windmill" church near Reigate is familiar to London cyclists. Not so familiar is the underground church at Brighton. Owing to some "ancient lights" difficulty, the authorities could not "build up" and as the site was a good one they decided to "build down."

OHIO REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

The Republican convention in Ohio has made known to the country that the program made last winter at Washington has been carried out in detail to the disappointment of anti-Republican men, who have been given to understand they are not needed in Republican politics in the State till the election, as Hanna and Foraker till then will rule the party.

The administration has gained additional support in State politics through actual work by the ring to effect its purpose of ruling the party in the State.

Through the example given in Ohio, it is expected the "Ohio Crowd," as it is termed in Washington, will run national politics in 1903, which was a part of the program made last winter in the White House by McKinley, Hanna, Foraker, and others in attendance at the meeting.

Hanna is to the fore with Foraker, close following in his wake, full of confidence respecting the future of the ring and its work in the State.

Senator Foraker made an address to the convention, which was full of assurance while he described the past and future of the Republican party. It was evident that he believed McKinley would continue to send good crops in the future as he has continued to do in the past, that his present administration will be a continued success through the Dingley trust-tariff act and the defeat of the Isthmian canal also through the application and enforcement of other national matters equally brilliant in design and execution.

The effort was a panegyric on McKinley and his administration till he struck a snag known as free silver, which punctured his balloon and he landed on William Jennings Bryan, whom he belabored to the close of his effort.

There was much said at the convention by members opposed to the line about the White House program agreed upon last February but they were in a minority which made them talk more than they would have done under more favorable circumstances.

There was a feeling that could not be overcome by the majority, which may in the future make an appearance to the annoyance of those who are dictating terms to the party.

PASSING OF MOB LAW.

The recent lynching of a whole family in Modoc county, California for alleged petty larceny has caused a storm of indignation to sweep across the entire length and breadth of the land.

Lynch law is an expediency that should be resorted to only when the laws of the land fail to become operative. In Modoc county there is an established judiciary and executive system that has never been charged with laxity, or weakness. The laws of California provide for the arrest, trial and punishment of petty thieves. The machinery of the law had been already set in motion in the cases of the persons lynched. There was no reason to believe that, if guilty, they could escape punishment commensurate with the offense committed. Hence there is a feeling of gratitude toward the grand jury of Modoc county for their prompt and effective action in sifting the responsibility for the outrage and indicating strongly suspected parties.

There is a growing feeling throughout the south that negro lynchings are not adding glory to the national reputation. The recent action of a southern sheriff, who protected his prisoner by firing upon a mob that thrusted for his blood, has been generally commended.

NEED FOR REFORESTING.

Devastating floods have occurred in many parts of the United States within the past few years. Only three days ago there was a heavy loss of both life and property in West Virginia from this cause. In nearly all these calamities the floods were directly traceable to denudation of the hills of their primeval forest coverings.

Spain and China are even worse sufferers than the United States from this cause. Periods of drought are interspersed with seasons when the flood waters lay waste the country.

Only one remedy will suffice to check this growing evil. Reforestation will secure a more uniform flow of water in the streams. Germany and other European countries have realized the peril of this condition of affairs and have applied the only remedy.

San Francisco street sweepers are very uneasy over rumored changes in the department. Evidently the city by the bay has determined to carry out its reform movement by making a clean sweep.

Pat Hogan received a crate yesterday containing three odd looking animals from the wilds of the Gila River country. They resemble badgers, but they are not so large, but they have a perfume quite as pungent.

What is most curious about the animals is their playfulness. Although they are not so large, but they have a perfume quite as pungent. Although they are not so large, but they have a perfume quite as pungent.

The Next Attraction.

The Reno Vandeville Company is putting in lots of time rehearsing for their performance to be given on the 30th inst.

A full and well drilled orchestra will be in attendance, and judging from the way they went through their parts at evening the music will be far above the average. It would be almost superfluous to mention the many fine singers that will appear at this performance. Suffice to say that the best talent in town is on the program and the songs ordered will be in every way modern. A number of specialties are on the list and they are all of a high class order. The curtain will ring up with a monitory scene that is taken from the "Foy Maker," now enjoying a big run at the Tivoli in San Francisco, and his will be enlivened with local jokes and dances.

Among the features of the evening may be mentioned an acrobatic turn that is equal to that of professionals, a comedy quartette that will produce the sweetest kind of harmony and at the same time make you laugh; and then little Leo Hickman is down for solo, and everyone who has heard this phenomenal singer knows what to expect.

The musical part of the performance is under the care of Lester Merrill, and that fact alone is an assurance that it will be first-class in every respect. Seats are now on sale at the usual place and indications point to a crowded house.

MINES OF TONAPAH.

What the "Bonanza" Says About That Prosperous New Camp.

The outlook in the mines of Tonopah improves daily as work advances on the many leases in the district. The leases on the Mizpah ledge which includes the company's, Cutting and partners, Sullivan & Lynch, Bonner, Lullena & Russell, Brougher Bros., Stinson & Co., Clark shaft, Golden, Phoby & Oddie, Beauchamp & Tamblin and Jim Robbins are all looking well and high grade ore is being extracted from each of them. In the Beauchamp & Tamblin lease, in which Frank Golden and Bob Hoffer of Carson are interested, the rock assays from $1400 to $2500 per ton. This rich rock is in the ledge in the shaft and holds this average as sinking is continued. There has been no cross-cutting or drifting on this lease no one can foresee but it is safe to say that the owners will realize a snug fortune from what is in sight at the present time.

The Cutting & Brown lease is also a very valuable property. It has the deepest shaft in Tonopah, which has attained a depth of 95 feet and the bottom is in ore of very high grade, which argues well for the lasting of the Tonopah mines, as many critics have freely expressed their opinion on the values of the ore as death is attained in such terms that only a practical demonstration would disprove, but such chronicles are found in all new mining camps, and it is a pleasure to note that their theories go for naught. There are so many leases being worked on the Mizpah ledge that space forbids a detailed description of them all in this issue.

THE WAR IN AFRICA.

A Journal Correspondent Expresses His Mind Very Freely.

J. D. O'Sullivan, an ardent pro-Brit, has furnished the Journal with the following communication on the management of the South African war:

As everybody knows the imputed barbarity of General Weyler's scheme of concentrating Cuban non-combatants in huge camps in order to cripple the "patriot" forces in the field, was the pretext on which this country began war with Spain. Our newspapers and politicians simply could not endure the sight of that cruel expedient, and on the strength of their virtuous protest, the government peremptorily ordered the Spanish sovereign to give up his West Indian belongings. We have been modestly applauding ourselves for that noble and disinterested act of goodness ever since. It has been asserted repeatedly by the highest dignitaries of the State, that no other act on earth except our own was capable of such a manifestation of unadulterated benevolence.

Subsequent developments have not exactly borne out these claims of unselfishness, but that is neither here nor there. We have not lost faith in the purity of our published motives. Nor do we seem in danger of losing so, no matter what happens.

Logically there is no reason why our humanity should be limited to righting the wrongs of Cuba. If we were justified in what we did for the oppressed natives of that hapless island, here is quite as much justification for dealing in the same way with other governments guilty of the things which we punished Spain. It is argued by those who discriminate in favor of what has already been done, that Cuba lies at our doors and that what has become an "intolerable condition" there, in a measure, due to this fact.

Had the island been on the other side of the Atlantic, instead of where it is, the case had been different. But that is by no means clear.

Humanity is humanity, and oppression oppression, regardless of geographical conditions. If we were entitled to interfere in behalf of the oppressed Cubans at all, a matter of three hundred or three thousand miles more or less would not make the slightest difference.

The suggestion that if Cuba had been an English, instead of a Spanish Colony, our duty in the premises would not have appeared so urgent and, we probably would have adopted a less summary course of action, may be dismissed as a fallacy at this time, but it casts a shadow of doubt on the sincerity of our professions, nevertheless.

This is not any the less obvious in view of the unflinching indifference manifested by Washington toward the horrors of the British reconcentrado scheme in "outh Africa." Was our stock of "humanity" exhausted upon the Cubans? Or shall we admit that it is reserved to use only in the case of oppressed subjects of a comparatively feeble power?

The Boer republics looked, not unreasonably, at least, in their heroic defense of their freedom and independence. The representatives of the fighting patriots have appealed without success for the moral support of this country in their heroic defense of freedom and independence.

ALL HAIL THE QUEEN.

Nellie, Regent, Received the Votes and Pleas of Her Subjects.

The Carnival headquarters last evening looked like a Presidential election night with returns coming in. When the Queen Committee took charge of the boxes the place was packed and a crowd in the street who could not get in.

The boxes were unloaded and the first announcement was "sixteen hundred for Miss Epstein."

On the heels of that came 2000 in 1-200 lots for Miss Epstein, and the next was a wifful 12.

It seemed all had way when Miss Schulz came up with a rush with five batches of 1000 votes each and as the cold and green backs came tumbling out Mrs. Tom Riecky stuffed them into the sack.

Miss Epstein seemed dropping behind when she got 800 and 600 in one lot and then 2000 and a crisis $1000 greenback went to her credit. The crowd applauded and laughed and that about settled the contest except a few scattering that came in from outside counties.

In all 3421 went to the credit of Miss Epstein and 2222 to Miss Schulz last night. The money tallied with the vote, 553. The following is the score:

Miss Nellie Epstein, Carson..... 2491
Miss Kate Schulz, Carson..... 2122
Miss Ida Robert, Carson..... 1440
Miss Rose Bergman, Carson..... 1220
Miss Rubel Martin, Gardnerville..... 1220
Miss Florence Hawkins, Carson..... 80
Miss Amy Ford, Eureka..... 20
Miss Vera Novogovich, Reno..... 40
Miss Mamie Farrel, Carson..... 15
Miss Geduev Elko..... 2

Total.....16,537
Cash realized.....$232 25
Those who were voted on and withdrew do not appear on the list. When he result was announced three cheers were given for the Queen.—Appeal.

RED WAGON HAS ARRIVED.

Last evening a flat car rolled into Reno bearing a precious burden. It carried the new hose wagon for the city fire department. Carefully, and tenderly, the precious cargo was unloaded and taken to the engine house where, without loss of time it was rigged up and placed in commission.

The wagon is a beauty indeed. It is so quickly equipped with the automatic harness running and loaded with ladders, helmets, rubber coats, axes, nozzles and 1500 feet of hose.

When ready to go out the wagon weighs 4500 pounds, but the span of black horses, whose duty it is to pull it are equal to the occasion.

The wagon is respondent in repair and shining. Omit Hodgkinson is so proud of the latest addition to his well equipped department that he is willing liable to turn in a false alarm any moment. The boys in blue at the engine house are not far behind in their admiration of the vehicle and the people of Reno may expect to see the department out on a parade June Fourth of July parade today.
